Without love all is but a clanging cymbal. So many voices compete for our attention. As we raise the flag of surrender in our hearts, we submit to trusting the voice within. Discoveries are made that display our need to defeat the inner victim and rise to a level of acceptance, thus, a war is waged over our own thoughts. Peace becomes a decision in the midst of the greatest chaos when we are able to see the light in our perceived moments of darkness and choose internal correction and release.
